Ikon is pleased to announce the continuation of Art at HMP Grendon, its artist residency at HMP Grendon, Buckinghamshire, for another three years (2024 – 2026). The residency has been generously funded by the Marie-Louise von Motesiczky Charitable Trust since 2010 and managed by Ikon since 2014.

Simon Harris, artist and printmaker, commences a new 18-month residency from February 2024, during which he will work with community members to produce new work to be showcased at HMP Grendon and Ikon Gallery.

About Simon Harris, Artist in Residence, HMP Grendon

Simon Harris is an artist, Senior Lecturer and Course Leader for BA (Hons) Fine Art at University of Wolverhampton. He was awarded his practice-based PhD, titled Deleuze and Painting: Re-thinking the Formal, in 2016. Harris works across printmaking, photography and painting, pursuing a pictorial plane that references the cinematic surface as an abstracted image. A master printmaker, Harris has been instrumental in setting up the Marie-Louise von Motesiczky Studio at HMP Grendon, training community members in the technical processes of printmaking through one-off workshops.

"Having already worked with the prisoners at HMP Grendon I have witnessed the impact that the dedicated art studio has on creative practice. I'm excited to continue to engage with the community, and to develop our shared artistic practices within the Marie-Louise von Motesiczky Studio. I also plan to create the largest painting ever made in a prison, drawing on my continued research into critical theory of the image." Simon Harris.

About Art at HMP Grendon

"Projects like this, where I've learned the benefits of being part of something bigger than the individual, taking responsibility and being encouraged to be the best version of ourselves, go a long way in challenging a man's core beliefs. Working alongside these professionals has instilled a sense of self-worth I have never previously known within my years of incarceration. No longer the feral individual you wouldn't want as a neighbour, I am now a man with hope in my future." 'B' (C wing community)

In 2022, with a focus on the development of the prisoners' artistic practice, Ikon opened the Marie-Louise von Motesiczky Studio at HMP Grendon – a dedicated art school-inspired space used for weekly workshops and exhibitions featuring artwork by prisoners and professional artists. This space was made possible with the support of the Marie-Louise von Motesiczky Charitable Trust and the senior team at HMP Grendon.

Ikon has managed two previous residences at HMP Grendon, by Edmund Clark (2014 – 2018) and Dean Kelland (2019 – 2023), resulting in major exhibitions at Ikon Gallery. The residency runs alongside a public programme of research symposia and events at Ikon, allowing a platform for public discourse on the role of art in criminal justice. Simon Harris' residency will be followed by a second 18-month residency (2025 – 2026), for which the artist will be recruited by a panel including prison community members.

"The residency has been able to produce something special. Not only has a community of artists come into being, but also a collaboration where everyone works together to create a meaningful experience. People become invested in working together to make the most of their time in prison, achieving something they take pride in, and making their time safe and purposeful." Richard Shuker (C Psychol), Head of Clinical Services, HMP Grendon

About HMP Grendon

Opened in Buckinghamshire in 1962, HMP Grendon adopted a psychiatric model of practice, developed in the aftermath of the Second World War, to treat post-traumatic stress disorder. It later became a therapeutic community; notably the only one of its kind in Europe. A Category B prison, community members undertake daily therapy, including art therapy and psychodrama, towards their rehabilitation. Each of its five wings operate as autonomous therapeutic communities, working and making decisions on behalf of each other.
